

EDWARD VII. RULES IN ENGLAND

QUEEN VICTORIA'S REIGN ENDED

GREAT BRITAIN

IS IN MOURNING

Her Sovereign Gave Up the Spirit Quietly This Afternoon.

FAMILY SURROUND HER

She Passed a Terrible Night With Sinking Spells That Presaged Death.

WALES IS PROCLAIMED KING

London, Jan. 22.—A telegram from the Prince of Wales to the Lord Mayor follows: "Osborne house, six forty five p. m.—My beloved mother has just passed away surrounded by her children and grandchildren. Signed, Albert Edward."

The announcement of the queen's death is given out at the postoffice. It is the official statement but the physicians' bulletin has not yet been received.

London, Jan. 22.—The death of the queen is confirmed by an announcement through the usual channels.

Wales Proclaimed King.

London, Jan. 22.—The Prince of Wales after the death of the queen was immediately proclaimed as king of Great Britain under the title of Edward VII.

Believed Queen Is Dead.

London, Jan. 22.—It is generally believed that the queen is dead. At four o'clock the following bulletin was posted at the Mansion house: "Osborne House—A painful duty obliges me to inform her people that the life of our beloved queen is in the greatest danger. Signed, Albert Edward."

This message from Wales in person is taken to be a veiled announcement that the queen is dead, at least, that the end is very near.

Give Up All Hope.

East Cowes, Jan. 22.—At four o'clock this afternoon the following bulletin was published: "The queen is slowly sinking. Signed, Reid, Powell and Barlow."

Another Sinking Spell.

Cowes, Jan. 22.—Slowly but steadily Victoria is sinking to final oblivion. At noon the members of the royal family including the Prince of Wales and the Kaiser were together at the bedside awaiting the end. Her remarkable vitality which came to her aid yesterday assisted in maintaining an improvement throughout the better part of the night.

Towards daylight this morning, the queen, who had a brief time before awakened from a long sleep, had another sinking spell, and gradually her strength began to ebb away.

At 8 o'clock the physicians issued this bulletin: "The queen this morning shows signs of diminishing strength and her condition again assumes a serious aspect."

Following this watchers outside of Osborne house knew that the queen was worse and believed that the end was near.

Her Vitality Triumphed.

Members of the royal family and the Bishop of Winchester were hastily summoned and the Rector of Shipham called to administer spiritual consolation. Couriers on bicycles and horses waited at the gates to convey to the world the news of her death. But the minutes dragged into hours and the queen's vitality held out.

A bulletin at one o'clock announced the queen's condition unchanged, that she had remained conscious during the trying hours of the morning and had been able to recognize the members of her family.

The Bishop of Winchester left the palace at 1:15 o'clock for a brief period at that hour the queen being asleep.

King George Is Called.

Athens, Jan. 22.—King George will leave for London tonight.

On the Road to Osborne.

London, Jan. 22.—Balfour, the first Lord of admiralty with the remainder of the royal family, who had waited in London, left for Osborne at one forty.

STILL LIVING AT SEVEN O'CLOCK.

But the Death of the Queen Is Expected Every Moment.

Cowes, Jan. 22, 7 a. m.—Queen Victoria still lives. The physicians themselves can say no more. Whether the end will come before night or not, for a day, or even two days, no human power can tell. Medical science has employed and is employing its utmost resources to defer the finality which it admits is inevitable. That these efforts have been successful thus far beyond their expectations the physicians ascribe quite rightly to the superb resistance which nature, re-enforced by the model life the queen has always lived, is making.

Dying Queen Feels No Pain.

The average man or woman of her age would have succumbed at the first attack of the combined maladies which are usually fatal within a few minutes or hours at most. The one element of satisfaction in the present condition is that the dying queen suffers not at all.

That is past and there remains only a peaceful lingering on the borders of eternity before the spirit goes to its final rest. It is expected that when the end comes it will be due to a sudden cessation of the heart's action due to the pressure of a clot of blood on the brain, which was referred to in the official bulletin.

Summoned Four Times.

The correspondents are informed that the members of the royal family were kept in momentary expectation of being summoned to witness the end up to 5:30.

The news of the death when it occurs, is likely to be publicly announced here, as, according to present arrangements, the first telegram is to be sent to the Lord Mayor of London.

There is an enormous telegraphic staff in Cowes, and additional facilities were installed yesterday at Osborne.

London, Jan. 22, 6 a. m.—A special train is in readiness to convey the members of the cabinet to Osborne at any moment. Thus far it has not been required.

Up to this hour no further bulletins have been received in London.

Emperor William spent the night at Osborne where the accommodations are so severely taxed that the Battenberg children slept Monday night at Lord Gort's residence, East Cowes Castle and the royal yachts at Cowes are being fitted up for the accommodation of visitors.

Victoria's Tomb Is Ready.

London, Jan. 22.—Queen Victoria's tomb is ready for her. It was built from designs suggested by herself and under her own supervision. The burial place of the British sovereigns is in the famous chapel of St. George, within the castle walls at Windsor, which was built by Cardinal Wolsey, and is considered one of the most beautiful examples of ecclesiastical architecture in the world. But Victoria would not permit the remains of her beloved consort to be placed in the gloomy crypt. She insisted upon building for them a mausoleum upon her own private grounds, within the grounds of Frogmore house, which adjoins those of Windsor castle. Its stately dome has been within sight of the windows of the apartments she always occupied within the castle. It is a simple but beautiful structure of colored marble, mosaic and bronze, and is intended for only the remains of two persons—her late husband and herself. The body of Prince Albert has been lying there for many years with a beautiful sarcophagus beside it that awaits her mortal remains.

FACTS ABOUT QUEEN'S ILLNESS.

Her Mind Has Been Gradually Failing for Months.

New York, Jan. 21.—A dispatch to the World from London says: "Your correspondent has obtained from a source within court circles the first comprehensive and actual account of the queen's illness that has been given out. The facts given place the illness of the queen in a startling and pathetic light. They show that her mind has been failing for many months, even before her visit to Ireland. She had been a mental wreck for months. Whenever it was officially announced that she made felicitous responses to speeches at public functions it is a matter of cold fact that the poor old queen was in such a daze that all she could say to her companion was 'Where am I?' Several times when she has appeared in public during the past six or eight months she has fallen asleep. Had it been any one else but the queen of England it would have been plain long ago that the malady was senile decay. And that truthfully is what afflicts Victoria. But for her physical breaking up of the past week, an attack of paralysis in the left side, it would have been possible for the court and the royal household to have kept from the British people knowledge of her mental decay for an indefinite period. For the queen had lapses of intellectual vigor, but these were more distressing to her than her periods of mental density."

The attendance is 297, the largest in the history of the college. At the close of the course about 100 young men will want positions where they can work during the eight months' intermission.

SOLONS AT MADISON GET DOWN TO WORK

WILL INVESTIGATE THE SUBJECT OF STATE PRINTING.

Senator Mills Thinks That a State Plant Could Be Established and Run on a More Economical Basis—Many Proposed Amendments to the Fish and Game Law.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—In the senate last night Senator Mills of Superior introduced a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a joint committee of both houses to investigate the subject of state printing and report back how printing in the future may be done more cheaply. Mr. Mills says that he has learned that the state spent at least $123,000 in 1899 and he thinks that a state plant could be established and run on a more economical basis. He also favors the appointment of a state printer.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 23.—The forty-fifth session of the Wisconsin legislature is now fairly well under way, some of the important measures, those in which the administration is most interested, will be introduced this week.

Many Game Law Bills.

"I expect to see from fifty to sixty bills introduced during the session in the way of amendments to the fish and game laws," said Assemblyman August Zinn, yesterday. "I understand that every other member in the assembly has a bill of some kind on the subject. Some are good and others are bad. I believe that there are some places in the present law that are open for improvement, but on the whole I do not believe that many changes will be made. The law has operated well and only the weak points should be changed. There is one thing that I would like to see done though, and that is to provide better protection for quail."

A Peculiar Incident.

A peculiar appearance about the beginning of the session is the appearance of Herman Miller of Marathon county as a member of the assembly. He got the position through Assemblyman George Werheim in whose district in Marathon county Mr. Miller lived. The latter, however, was so captivated with official life, that he laid his plans to come to the assembly himself for this session, and got out and worked up sufficient support in the district to get the republican nomination away from his former benefactor. Mr. Miller now offers to balance things up by getting a position for Mr. Werheim, but the latter is a lumberman and does not need a political job.

Women Ask to Vote Separately.

The action taken by the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs at its convention in Racine, relative to women's participation in school elections will result in the presentation of a bill to the legislature asking that the authorities provide for women wishing to vote for school officers at spring and general elections both separate ballots and separate voting places.

TWENTY HORSES DIE IN A BURNING BARN

Reported That a Milwaukee Fire Was of Incendiary Origin—Loss is Over $30,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—The big barn of the Wisconsin Lakes Ice company at Third and Poplar streets was burned last night. Twenty horses perished in the flames. The fire arouses interest by reason of the fact that the Wisconsin Ice company—the Wisconsin name for the ice trust—is at present engaged in a bitter fight with a rival ice company on the Milwaukee river above the dam. The rival companies of men on the river, one gang trying to smash the ice while the other seeks to protect it. It is reported that the fire was of incendiary origin. The loss is $30,000.

The steamer Julius Goll was wrecked during the day but made port though leaking badly. The Goll was smashing ice in the Milwaukee river to prevent the Wisconsin Ice company from getting a crop when it ran into a huge cake of ice and opened a seam that let water into the hold.

The Eagle horseshoe company's plant was all but destroyed by fire last night. The loss will be $150,000.

FIRE AT HENRY EXTINGUISHED

Peoria Department's Quick Trip—Nine Buildings Destroyed.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 22.—The fire at Henry has been extinguished. A Rock Island engine hauled a steamer and hose cart from city to Henry, a distance of thirty-three miles, in thirty minutes, and the crew had the fire under control very promptly.

The loss is about $100,000, nine buildings being destroyed. The fire started on the second story of Powers' Fair and spread north on Edwards street, destroying Baer's saloon, Warren & McAleer's restaurant, the Faskel house, J. N. Krenz's harness shop, Frank Yamochoowski's bakery and restaurant, Burt's newsroom, Hartwig's tailoring establishment, Hartley's barber shop and Daniel's photograph gallery. A brick building was left standing at each end of the block. The insurance on the building and stock will amount, it is estimated, to about $50,000.

Denver Indignant because Their City Has been Turned Down in Favor of Cleveland.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—Grand Army officials in session here yesterday afternoon decided that the 1901 encampment shall be held in Cleveland, O., Sept. 9.

The Denver delegation issued a statement declaring that an encampment would be held in their city next September at the same time as the one scheduled for Cleveland. Members of the Colorado delegation are indignant because it was unanimously decided at the Chicago encampment that Denver was to get the 1901 encampment.

Commander in Chief Rassiur said: "At that encampment this committee will report the facts which led them to the action taken, and every Grand Army comrade will doubtless heartily approve of the action taken. We have endeavored to do what is best for the Grand Army."

They are noted far and wide for the perfect work turned out.

Mr. Bryan expects to have a circulation of more than 100,000 copies. The paper will consist of sixteen pages—at least for the present. The publication will be about one-fourth as large in rectangular dimensions as an average daily newspaper and will have much the appearance of a magazine. It is announced that a rigid policy respecting objectionable matter will be observed on the principles laid down by Rev. Charles Sheldon.

HANNA WILL FORCE THE SUBSIDY BILL

The Decks Are Being Cleared in the United States Senate for a Mighty Struggle.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Senator Hanna did not get his subsidy bill before the senate yesterday, but says he will do so today. All the experts continue to say that the bill cannot be passed, but Mr. Hanna says it can and will be.

The opponents of the measure do not like Mr. Hanna's smile. It seems to imply confidence. It is only when he makes mistakes which play into the hands of his enemies, and now he is serene, placid, radiant. The decks are being cleared in the senate for a mighty struggle.

MRS. NATION AGAIN SMASHES SALOONS

Assisted by Two Other Women, Wreck Two More Bar-Rooms.

STRIKES THE SHERIFF

Says That the Movement Will Sweep the Union and Wipe Out Liquor Traffic.

CRUSADERS ARE ALL ARRESTED

Wichita, Kas., Jan. 22.—Complaints against Mrs. Carrie Nation, Mrs. Julia Evans and Mrs. Lucy Wilheltz charging a malicious destruction of property, were filed in the city court today by the owners of the wrecked saloons. Ferrig, one of the complainants, says that he will file insanity charges against Mrs. Nation this afternoon.

At an early hour this morning a crowd of fifty surrounded the jail and demanded possession of Mrs. Nation for the purpose of ducking her in the river. The sheriff fired several shots and they quickly dispersed. The husband of Mrs. Nation says that he will sue the county for twenty thousand for false imprisonment of his wife and will have Gov. Stanley arrested for failure to keep his oath.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 22.—Once more is Mrs. Carrie Nation a martyr to the cause of temperance, and she is behind the bars of the city jail as the result of a raid yesterday in which she and three women residents of this city demolished the stock, fixtures, and windows of two saloons and last night she closed her day of excitement by slapping Sheriff Simmons on the face, taking hold of his ears, and giving him a rough handling generally.

Pistol Stays Work of Ruin.

A pistol pressed against her breast, with a determined man behind it promising to shoot if she did not desist, dissuaded Mrs. Nation from completing her work of destruction of the Wichita's saloons.

The four crusaders wielded hatchets and clubs with such effect that the furniture and glassware in the two liquor shops were gone beyond repair before the proprietors realized what had happened. The establishments of James Burns and John Herwig were those visited and the latter man is the one who saved all of the property back of the bar by the timely suggestion of an inclination to use his revolver.

Strikes at a Detective.

Mrs. Nation, with her companions, ran to the Carey Hotel bar, where she made her first attack on the saloons of Wichita three weeks ago. There three policemen met her and she struck at Detective Sutton with a poker.

Mrs. Nation and her assistants in the work of reform—Mrs. Julia Evans, Mrs. Lucy Wilheltz and Lydia Abbott—were released soon after as the result of a clash between the city and county authorities as to jurisdiction in the case.

Mrs. Evans, whose hands were badly cut by broken glass was given surgical attention by her husband, who is a physician.

Crusade to Sweep Whole Union.

Mrs. Nation declared previous to the interference with her lecture that she would organize a band of crusaders to wipe out the saloons, not only in Kansas but in every state in the union. These bands will be ready to go to any place at a moment's notice and she said that their railroad fare will be paid, "but hatchets are cheap you know, so we will have to pay for them. The work is too great for me to do all myself but these bands that I have mentioned will assist. That I have mentioned will assist. As soon as they are telegraphed for they will come."

Mrs. Nation shook her fist and said: "This is the right arm of God, and will be used to demolish such places. You saloon keepers can run your places but we will break them up. Saloons can't run in Wichita any longer. If the authorities don't stop them we will."

The damage done by the three women is estimated at between $1,500 and $2,000.

All Wichita is out viewing the wrecks.

Mrs. Nation lecturing in Hutchinson, Kas., Sunday night said: "Wichita isn't the only town in Kansas that has rocks and brickbats. I will gladly give up my life, if need be, while destroying these awful places."

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pond pleasantly entertained the clerical force of J. M. Bostwick & Sons' store at their home last evening. The time was spent with cards, billiards and dancing, and the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Pond was very greatly enjoyed by those participating.

LIVED FAR BEYOND THE CENTURY MARK

MRS. MARY SMITH DIED AT LOS ANGELES JAN. 11.

Had Lived in Three Centuries, and Under Every President This Nation Has Known—Mother of Mrs. John Cummings of This City—An Interesting Biography

On the eleventh of this month there died at Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. Mary Smith, widow of Capt. Nathaniel Smith, who enjoyed the rare distinction of having lived nearly 100 years, of having seen a part of two centuries, and all of one, and having had the opportunity had she chosen to use it, of criticizing the administration of every president this country has known, from Washington to McKinley.

This lady was the mother of Mrs. John Cummings, 173 Washington St., this city. She lived at one time in Woodstock, had often visited in Janesville, and was well known in this section.

The Los Angeles Evening Express of the 11th inst., has this to say concerning the woman whose remarkable longevity sets her apart from the common experience of mankind.

She was born Sept. 22, 1795, in the eighteenth century. Mrs. Smith lived through the last days of that century, all through the nineteenth and eleven days of the twentieth. She was at the time of her death 105 years, 3 months, 20 days old, a longer life, it is believed, than that enjoyed by any human being of white parentage so far as is known throughout the United States, if not the world.

Until near the end Mrs. Smith's faculties were not badly impaired, despite her old age. This remarkable woman, who in her infancy, was dandled on the knee of a soldier of the American revolution, and who drew a pension as a widow of a soldier of the second war with Great Britain, in 1812, enjoyed a reasonably vigorous prime. She attributed much of her good health to being placed in a climate such as cannot be equaled anywhere.

Faith is the Giver of all good things in the religion of her fathers and the trust she had in her future life has been the hope of Mrs. Smith throughout her long, eventful life. To her the Bible was and always has been, an inspired volume. She was a great reader, and was fond of flowers and dumb animals. She never visited a theater, nor until 85 years of age had ever been on salt water. She was never subject to the ills that flesh is heir to and believed in the scriptural injunction, "Be ye temperate in all things."

Mrs. Smith was the sixth child and first daughter of Capt. Caleb Bentley and Mary Hewitt, who settled in Berlin, Rensselaer county, N. Y., shortly after the American revolution. At that time the locality was part of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. Her father was a descendant of a noted English family, who came to America in the seventeenth century. He was born in 1740, old style, which was about 162 years ago.

Mrs. Smith was married in 1812 to Capt. Nathaniel Smith, in his day a factor in New York state and an officer in the second war with Great Britain in 1812. After that unpleasantness he owned saw and grist mills, also merchandise stores in his locality. After the panic of 1837 he moved westward, settling on the Big Foot Prairie, bordering on Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin. He remained there until his death, thirty years later.

Thirteen children were born to the couple, Judge B. N. Smith of the Superior bench of this county, being the youngest. Judge Smith brought his aged mother with him when he removed to California, in 1887. Once since then has she recrossed the continent, and that after she had passed her eightieth birthday. After visiting all the localities in which she had lived she returned to Los Angeles, content to have her life draw to a close in Southern California.

There are now surviving of Mrs. Smith's family, five children. They are: Mrs. Cummings, of Janesville, Wis.; Mrs. Badger, now at Santa Cruz, Cal.; N. K. Smith, of Broadhead, Wis.; John I. Smith, Bethlehem, Mo.; and Judge B. N. Smith, of this county.

Arkansas for the Filipinos.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 22.—A heated discussion took place in the Arkansas house of representatives over a resolution extending sympathy to the people of the Philippine islands in "their heroic struggle for freedom." Members hailing from counties lying on the Missouri border favored the resolution and made red-hot speeches advocating its passage, while those residing in the eastern part of the state and on the Mississippi river worked and spoke against it. It was adopted by a vote of 53 to 32.

WHAT KIND OF KING WILL WALES MAKE?

SOCIETY WILL PLAY A STRONG
PART IN HIS COURT.

It Will Bloom Out Into Great Magnificence—He Will Surround the Throne with an Aristocracy of the Highest Class—England Has Confidence in Him.

London, Jan. 22.—Edward VII., King of Great Britain and Emperor of India, the man who for the last half century has worn so gracefully the name of "first gentleman of England." What sort of a king will he make? That is the most important question of the day. It is the universal query that everybody is asking in England today and which millions are asking outside of England.

What of his government? Will it be a government of exclusive aristocracy, a government of pure democracy? Will Edward be a king in fact, as George III. tried to be, or will he be content to leave the reins of government in the hands of his ministers and play a purely ornamental part?

People Have Confidence. Will he continue to be the easy-going man that he has been all these years, or will he surround himself with "that divinity which doth hedge a king" and adopt new manners? Much, very much, depends on the answer to these questions, and while opinions may be formed regarding the probable answer, no man can say with certainty what that answer may be.

One thing can be said, however, and that is that the great bulk of the English people have great confidence in their coming sovereign. They know he is a man of great tact, and, knowing that, they have faith.

It is safe to say that there has never been a more interesting prince. To have filled this position with dignity and grace is no small matter. And he has filled it. He has been the "first gentleman in England" in fact as well as in name. If a hunting term be permissible regarding one who loves all forms of sport, he has taken many difficult fences in his day and has never become a cropper.

His Democratic Traits. Englishmen think that they love him for his democracy, but if it had been the wrong sort of democracy they would not have loved him at all. His has always been the kind that did not forget itself. Though he wore a sack coat when he felt like it and an Alpine hat when a man who recognized the dictates of fashion would have worn one of silk; though he used a cab instead of a royal carriage and took a first-class compartment instead of a royal train; though he lived much in the clubs and mingled in a way with those beneath him so that he was the prince and that he called, he never let it be forgotten must be respected as such.

Today he is a man of sixty, with a short reign at the best before him. In ten years, if he lives so long, he will have lived out the allotted span of three score and ten.

Distance for Politics. His habits are all formed, his tastes are known. With a strong lifelong distaste for politics he takes up the reins of a troubled government. How will he drive? It is a puzzling question.

It seems certain that society will play a stronger part in the court of Edward VII. than it did in the court of Queen Victoria. Far-seeing observers expect to see the court of Edward blossom out into one of great magnificence. They believe that he will surround his throne with an aristocracy of the highest sort, and that probably there will be a revival to some extent of official influence in that charmed circle called society.

There are some within that circle who are even hoping for a reappearance of the glorious closing days of the eighteenth century, when England was ruled by "Brook's Club" and the London drawing rooms. Should this take place it will give a great impulse to republicanism.

Influence of the Queen. The queen's own personality more than any other condition has kept down all radical political tendencies in England, no matter whether directed toward foreign or home affairs. In recent years there has been a sort of unspoken maxim: "Let the present conditions alone while the queen lives."

This spirit was inspired greatly by veneration for the great sovereign and a desire not to give her pain, and partly by a feeling of chivalry for her because she was a woman. With the new sovereign it will be a question of men dealing with a man, and the long-restrained aspirations of men of all classes will be given more free utterance.

That Edward VII. will make a courteous monarch none will gainsay. He has had his baptism of fire and has shown that he possessed all the attributes of bravery that go up to make a first-rate man as well as an admirable king.

Attempt on His Life. It was in April 1900, that he was brought face to face with a revolver of a would-be assassin, the scatter-brained youth Scipido. The prince's conduct on that occasion won for him the admiration of all of his people. He was cool, untrifled, gentle.

He gazed calmly into the muzzle of the weapon that threatened to put an end to his existence, and when Scipido was seized requested those who laid hands on him not to be harsh with him.

On another occasion less supremely testing his courage, though by no means unworthy of recording, he was sleeping in the South of France when an earthquake occurred. The prince was awakened and warned to escape. But he quietly turned over in bed and refused to have his rest disturbed by so trivial a thing as an earthquake.

It is things such as these that make Englishmen feel assured that it is no weakness that will ascend the throne and that give them confidence that he will fill it as he filled other situations, with dignity and courage.

See Ground for Hope.

Many believe that it is just as well that he did not become a king when he was younger and less ripe. But the day has passed when men speak flippantly regarding him, and the nation faces the change of sovereigns so far as the incoming one is concerned with plenty of hope and abounding confidence.

Less than a year ago the Prince of Wales gave an insight into his real character which is of particular interest at this time. He wrote, for publication, as follows:

"I am the happiest when I have no public engagements to fulfill; when I can forget that I am your royal highness, and can smoke a really good cigar and read a good novel; when, like plain Mr. Jones, I can go to a race meeting without seeing chronicled in the papers the next day that the Prince of Wales has taken to gambling very seriously and yesterday lost more money than he can afford to pay; when I can shake hands and talk with Sir Edward Clark without it being rumored that the Prince of Wales is violently opposed to the present war; when I can spend a quiet evening at home with the princess and my family."

"I am unhappiest when I have a raging toothache and have to attend some social function, where I must smile pleasantly as though I never had a pain in my life."

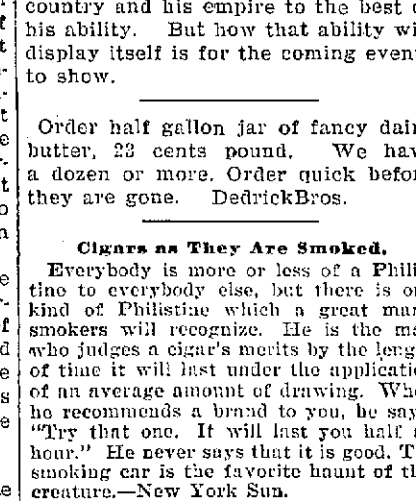

Is Intensely English. As for his policies they are for the future to determine. He has never expressed himself regarding those of his nation. It is probable that the British cabinet does not know today how he stands regarding the Boers, the Chinese or the other burning questions of the day.

They do not know that he is intensely English, and that it will be his aim to advance the condition of his country and his empire to the best of his ability. But how that ability will display itself is for the coming events to show.

Cigars as They Are Smoked. Everybody is more or less of a Philistine to everybody else, but there is one kind of Philistine which a great many smokers will recognize. He is the man who judges a cigar's merits by the length of time it will last under the application of an average amount of drawing. When he recommends a brand to you, he says: "Try that one. It will last you half an hour." He never says that it is good. The smoking car is the favorite haunt of this creature.—New York Sun.

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS.

UNCLE SAM HAS A BODY OF MEN
TRYING TO SOLVE THEM.

Work of the United States Industrial Commission and Its Personnel. Voluminous Reports of Present Interest and Future Value Issued.

While all public spirited citizens of the United States are devoting much time and attention to the questions of trusts, strikes and others of economic interest our government is maintaining a large and costly commission to settle these questions for us or at least to attempt to find some settlement of them. This body is known officially as the United States Industrial commission on conditions of labor and capital employed in manufacturing and general business, which is usually shortened to the industrial commission.

The commission consists of 19 members, five of whom are senators, five are representatives and five are from private life. The senators are Kyle of South Dakota, chairman of the commission; Penrose of Pennsylvania; Mallory of Florida; Daniel of Virginia and Bard of California. The representatives are Gardner of New Jersey; Lorimer of Illinois; Livingston of Georgia; Bell of Colorado and Otjen of Wisconsin. The civilians are A. L. Harris of Ohio, John M. Farquhar of New York, E. D. Conger of Michigan, Thomas W. Phillips of Pennsylvania, Charles J. Harris of North Carolina, John L. Kennedy of the District of Columbia, Albert Clarke of Massachusetts, Charles H. Litchman of New Jersey and the new member, D. A. Tompkins of Charlotte, N. C. The main burden of the work falls of course on the civilian members, owing to the other official duties of the congressmen.

The salary of the citizen members is $3,600 per year, the others serving without pay other than their compensation as congressmen. The work of the commission is mainly done by means of the subcommittees, of which there are five—on agriculture, mining, manufacturing, transportation and statistics. These titles give an idea of the scope of the commission's work, which is very broad and elastic. The subcommittees sit in various parts of the country for the taking of testimony and the investigations necessary for the furtherance of their work. Their conclusions are embodied in reports to congress and the state legislatures, recommending legislative enactment. The commission works, of course, in harmony and conjunction with any other body having similar aims.

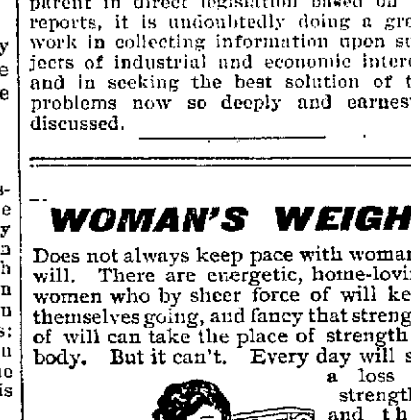

The industrial commission has been in existence since October, 1896, and has sent to congress five volumes of reports, while others are in course of preparation. The reports already submitted include one on trusts and corporations, one upon trust incorporation laws, a third devoted to prison labor, another on transportation and one which covers the subject of labor legislation. Although the work of the commission may not be immediately apparent in direct legislation based on its reports, it is undoubtedly doing a great work in collecting information upon subjects of industrial and economic interest and in seeking the best solution of the problems now so deeply and earnestly discussed.

WOMAN'S WEIGH. Does not always keep pace with woman's will. There are energetic, home-loving women who by sheer force of will keep themselves going, and fancy that strength of will can take the place of strength of body. But it can't. Every day will see a loss of strength, and that loss will be indicated by a loss of weight. When the weight begins to fall below the normal it is time to ask, Why?

In general, ill health in women may be traced to those womanly diseases which sap the strength and undermine the vitality. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dries enfeebling humors, cleanses the system, and cures female weakness. Where the disease is marked by loss of flesh, there is a steady regaining of weight coincident with the cure which proves the renewal of health to be thorough and permanent.

"Three years ago," writes Mrs. John Graham, of 2013 Plumb Street (Frankford), Philadelphia, Penna. "I had a very bad attack of dropsy which left me with heart trouble, and also a very weak back. At times I was so bad that I did not know what to do with myself. I came to Philadelphia two years ago, and picking up one of your little books one day began to read what your 'Favorite Prescription' had done for others, I determined to try it myself. I took seven bottles, and to-day I am a strong, well woman, weighing 120 pounds. Have gained 25 pounds since I started to use your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

"Don't Speak to me."

All manner of extravagant expressions are possible when a woman's nerves are overwrought.

The spasm at the top of the wind pipe or bronchial tubes, "ball rising in the throat," violent beating of the heart, laughing and crying by turns, muscular spasms (throwing the arms about), frightened by the most insignificant occurrences—are all symptoms of a hysterical condition and serious derangement of the female organs.

Any female complaint may produce hysterics, which must be regarded as a symptom only. The cause, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which acts at once upon the organ afflicted and the nerve centers, dispelling effectually all those distressing symptoms.

Mrs. Lewis Says: "I Feel Like a New Person, Physically and Mentally."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For years I had ovarian trouble and suffered everything from nervousness, severe headache, and pain in back and abdomen. I had consulted different physicians, but decided to try your medicine, and I soon found it was giving me much relief. I continued its use and now am feeling like a new person, physically and mentally, and am glad to add one more testimonial to the value of your remedy."—MRS. M. H. LEWIS, 2108 Valentine Ave., Tremont, New York, N. Y.

Writing to Mrs. Pinkham is the quickest and surest way to get the right advice about all female troubles. Her address is Lynn, Mass. She advises women free. Following is an instance:

Mrs. Haven's First Letter to Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I would like your advice in regard to my troubles. I suffer every month at time of menstruation, and flow so much and for so long that I become very weak, also get very dizzy. I am troubled with a discharge before and after menses, have pains in ovaries so bad sometimes that I can hardly get around, have sore feeling in lower part of bowels, pain in passing it; have leucorrhoea, headache, fainting spells, and sometimes have hysteria. My blood is not in good condition. Hoping to hear from you, I am," MRS. EMMA HAVEN, 2508 South Ave., Council Bluffs, Iowa. (June 3, 1899.)

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for what your medicine has done for me. I suffered for four years with womb trouble. Every month I flowed very badly. I got so bad that I could hardly do my work. Was obliged to sit or lie down the most of the time. I doctored for a long time, but obtained no relief. I began using your remedies—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier, Sanative Wash and Liver Pills—and now feel like a new woman."—MRS. EMMA HAVEN, 2508 South Ave., Council Bluffs, Iowa. (Feb. 1, 1900.)

ENGLAND'S FUTURE.

The long and successful reign of Queen Victoria, covering a period of sixty-four years, has contributed greatly to the stability of the English government, and is a strong argument in favor of extended tenure of office. It may not apply with equal force to this country, and yet it is an open question whether the states, as well as the Union, would not enjoy more wholesome administration if state officials were elected for four years, and the president for eight years.

The future of England, so far as the form of government is concerned, is hardly a debatable question. It is extremely doubtful if she ever abandons the empire for a republic. Her wealth is so concentrated and her land owners are so limited in number, that an imperial government is necessary.

Republics are still in their infancy, and it remains to be demonstrated by the test of time, whether the United States, with its free institutions and free almost everything else, will be able to govern itself for an indefinite period. There are strong elements in this country, as well as all others, that are dangerous to self-government. Elements that are so full of theories and so erratic in action, that the foundation of the republic is sometimes threatened. Less than three months ago, almost half of the voting population said by ballot, we want to experiment with a new and untried theory, which, if adopted, would have demonstrated within a year that as nation we had passed the point where self-government was no longer safe in the hands of the people. There are half a dozen political parties, clamoring for ascendancy in the country today, the success of any one of which would mean the overthrow of the republic in a short space of time. We are a mixed people and, as restless as we are mixed. Not satisfied with church creeds or political creeds, ready to follow any red wagon that comes along.

This spirit of restlessness is demoralizing to a republican form of government, and in some of our western states has already wrought havoc, and threatened ruin. There are of course causes for these conditions, but the causes are easier to explain than the cold facts are to regulate. Capital and labor, corporations and individuals, classes and masses, all breeders of socialistic theories, and all contributing to an unrest that is unhealthy.

The eyes of England, as well as other nations, are on us, with more or less skepticism. England will stay by her empire until we have demonstrated beyond question that a large majority of our people at least are capable of self-government.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY

The trouble at the Stanford university in California has led to a good deal of discussion. College bred writers have very naturally defended the professors assuming that free speech is of vital importance, and that any university that attempts to hamper it is doomed to defeat. The trouble at Stanford was caused by disloyalty to the nation pure and simple. The recent trouble was the result of a sympathetic strike on the part of some of the professors. The institution is better off without them than with them. Mrs. Stanford has demonstrated that her brain is not overloaded with fine spun theories and that her Americanism is of the right stripe, noted for hard common sense.

The university, in which she is interested, will live long after the erratic professors that annoyed it are forgotten.

While it is true that free speech is a part of the inheritance of this free land, it is equally true that restriction under certain circumstances is not only necessary, but demanded by the welfare of the nation. Free speech led to the Haymarket riot and the death penalty of the perpetrators. Eugene V. Debs had a little experience with it to his discomfiture. Public opinion was with the law in both cases, and while the Stanford episode is not parallel in the gravity of the situation, yet the verdict of public opinion is with Mrs. Stanford.

Absolute loyalty is the price of the life of a republic, and when an anarchist or socialist or a college professor becomes so enamored with theories that are antagonistic, that he can't refrain from expressing them both in and out of season, it is time to call a halt. It is humiliating to acknowledge that intelligent men possessing some of these visionary theories, are found not only in our colleges and universities, but in congress as well, and it has been painfully apparent for some time that our trouble at Manila is aggravated and prolonged because of expressions of sympathy and condolence, by men who, while not meaning to be disloyal, are obstructionists of the most troublesome sort. A college professor is directly responsible to the people who employ him and his term of service should be limited to his good behavior, both mentally and morally. He is responsible in a larger sense to the nation at large because he has to do with the next generation.

The product of his work is a monument to his ability and common sense, or the lack of it. The monuments too frequently show the lack. Too many young men enter practical life from these institutions with theoretical equipment and un-American ideas of a government of which they are to be an active part. It is a blemish on the life of the boy, to which he is not entitled, and any man who helps to produce it, however innocent may be his intent, is totally unfit to be an instructor.

Higher education is lofty in aim, and entitled to every encouragement, but in this land it should always rest on an American foundation, and its equipment should be so intensely American, as to be beyond question or the shadow of doubt.

ARMY RECONSTRUCTION.

That congress was wise in passing the army bill, increasing the force to 100,000 men at the discretion of the president, will be generally conceded. Secretary Root's amendment will also be endorsed.

The war with Spain demonstrated the weakness of our army along certain and inexcusable lines that were not discovered until the test of experience was applied. It was painfully apparent that the life and atmosphere of Washington for twenty-five years, did not contribute to efficiency of service, or anything else but dry rot, and a good display on dress parade. In other words that our army officers had, many of them, been leading a life of indolence and leisure so long at the capital city, that they were totally incompetent for active service, and when they were turned loose to organize and equip an army of 250,000 men, mainly raw recruits, that they were conspicuous for about the same amount of skill as the army of Lords that have annoyed England nearly as much as the Boers in the South African war. We had plenty of Lord Kitcheners and General Bullers at home. Men who thought more of their laundry and dress suits than of the men in the field, and who would rather discuss canned beef than army tactics.

Secretary Root's amendment seeks to regulate this evil, by an in-and-out post service, the same as has long existed in the navy, and has contributed so largely to the success of our fleets. An army officer will be permitted to spend four years in Washington, or a similar in-post, and then he will be obliged to spend four years in active service, in fort or field. The only trouble with the amendment is that it does not apply to the present force, and death or old age alone, can remove some of the barnacles that have long been more ornamental than useful.

The less red tape and the more brown bread and beeswax the nation has in the army, the more efficient the service. The reform is in the right direction and will be heartily approved.

IN JUSTICE TO MILTON.

The smallpox scare at Milton, which has been so freely discussed of late, has left some scars that do not resemble smallpox. Some of the good people at Milton are impressed with the notion that The Gazette has a spite against the town and is attempting to injure its business interests. This is not true, as the paper has many friends and a liberal clientele at Milton. It also cherishes the most kindly feeling for the county where it has so long circulated. There are, however, some features of news that a paper would be criticised for not publishing, that are sometimes distasteful to individuals as well as communities. The reports from Milton came to the paper from reliable sources, outside of its regular correspondent, and was published as news, and with no thought of doing any one an injustice. Had an epidemic of smallpox followed, the paper would have been denounced for withholding the news, and the people of Milton would have been censured more severely than they have been for lack of caution.

The Gazette is very glad to know that the scare was not more serious, and that the town has escaped so fortunately. Should the smallpox break out in Janesville, the Milton people will be advised of it through the news columns of The Gazette.

MANY COLLIERS ON STRIKE.

Employees of C. Pardee & Co. to Number of 1,200 Quit Work.

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 22.—The 1,200 men employed at the Lattimer colliery of C. Pardee & Co. struck because of the alleged unwarranted discharge of two drill-runners and the company's refusal to reinstate them, as required by a committee of the mine workers. The miners at the Harwood colliery of the same company threaten to inaugurate a sympathetic strike if matters are not adjusted.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 22.—A special to the Sentinel from Newcomb Tenn., says 200 miners employed in the Woodridge, Oswego and Indian Mountain coal mines stopped work. They are on strike in sympathy with the striking coal miners in the Italian Blue Gem company's mine. The trouble is over the fixing of the pay day.

FOR A TRUST IN PINEAPPLES.

Growers of Florida Forming a Combine to Regulate Prices.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 22.—Pineapple growers all over southern Florida are moving toward Tampa, where a meeting looking to close a permanent organization of Florida growers will be held. This has been brought about by the St. Petersburg Pineapple Growers' association, the members of which have pooled their interests. The Florida growers will organize what will practically be a pineapple growers' trust, the various interests to have their own representatives on the New York, Chicago and other large markets. The prices and shipments are to be accordingly regulated. Vegetable growers all over Florida and the American vegetable growers in Cuba are now effecting a close organization along the same lines.

Morris Sues the Salt Trust.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—Nelson Morris & Co. of Chicago have brought suit in the United States court against the salt trust to recover $90,000 damages. It is claimed the United Salt company entered into a contract to furnish salt for a year at a certain price, and it is alleged that the terms of the contract have been violated.

LABOR MEN ARE SHOT DEAD.

Two of a Party of 150 Marchers Are Slain.

ROAD BATTLE IN KENTUCKY.

Coal Miners Marching Toward the Carbonate Mines to Attend a Meeting at Bostown Clash with Five Officers—Deputies Scouring County.

Earlington, Ky., Jan. 22.—A posse of five deputy sheriffs and 150 union miners clashed in the highway while the miners were marching toward Carbonate mines to attend a meeting at Bostown, the headquarters of the organized miners. The miners for some time had threatened to stop the operation of the coal mines of Hopkins county, all of which are being operated by non-union men. The deputy sheriffs anticipated trouble and tried to stop the marching men, when the clash came. Many shots were exchanged and two of the marching miners were killed. The dead: Bill Cook, shot by deputy sheriff after he had opened the battle; John Henry Taylor, a labor organizer of Central City, shot in the head and died later.

Order Marchers to Disperse.

In the sheriff's party were Deputy Sheriffs J. S. Lindie and Lucien Bassett, who have been on duty at St. Charles and Hisey, and three men from St. Charles who were sworn in as deputies. They overtook the marching men, 150 strong, between Bostown and Crabtree. The sheriff's posse halted the men and read the sheriff's proclamation prohibiting the assembling and movement of such bodies through the county. The deputy sheriff called on them to obey the proclamation, which they failed to do, and he then told them to consider themselves under arrest. His answer was a pistol shot from Bill Cook, leveled at his head. The bullet missed Lindie, but his face was powder-burned by the shot.

Say the Miners Fired.

A fusillade followed, in which most of the marchers are reported to have taken part, running as they fired. The sheriff's posse stood its ground and returned the fire, and soon the battle grew fierce, although none of the miners' shots took effect. The deputy sheriffs poured in a final volley, and as a result Bill Cook of this county and John Henry Taylor, who has been in the county for some time as organizer, were killed.

Deputies Sought to Arrest Others.

After the battle several persons visited Bostown. They report the village deserted. Deputies are scouring the country looking for other bodies of marchers, and members of the attacking party who escaped, and any who are found will be arrested. District President Jim Woods of Central City, who has been in charge of the attempt to organize the miners, which began in this county some weeks ago, is out of the county. John Henry Taylor, Geo. Chappell (colored), George Nichols of Muhlenberg county, and W. E. Kessinger of Central City were the chief agitators of the marching party.

Will Affect 30,000 Workers.
Hartford City, Ind., Jan. 22.—The American Window Glass company and the Independent Manufacturers' association today agreed to close their plants April 1 instead of June 1. Eighty factories and about 30,000 workers will be affected. The object of the shutdown is to curtail the production and maintain prices.

Four New Canadian Senators.
Ottawa, Jan. 22.—At the cabinet meeting four new senators were appointed. A. T. Wood of Hamilton replaces the late Senator McInnes; Geo. McHugh, South Victoria, takes the place of Senator Frank Smith; Robert Mackay, president of the Montreal board of trade, succeeds Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, and L. M. Jones of Brantford takes the place of Senator Reaser, resigned.

Two Dead and Two Missing.
Kewanee, Ill., Jan. 22.—Elmer Peterson was killed in a fire at the Commercial house. D. J. C. Gruber, Fort Wayne, Ind., was badly hurt. Emma A. Knoch, Fort Madison, Iowa, and an unknown man from St. Louis are missing.

A later dispatch says that C. C. Colton of Terre Haute was suffocated in bed at the hotel. His remains were shipped to Terre Haute.

Bricklayers and Masons' Meeting.
Milwaukee, Jan. 22.—The International Union of Bricklayers and Masons held three sessions, but nothing of importance was done, as none of the leading committees were ready to report. The contest for offices is still simmering, but may break out at any moment. Thus far the eastern men feel confident of re-electing the old officers.

Thieves Fire Tennessee Postoffice.
Nashville, Jan. 22.—The postoffice and the store of Burnley & Hall in Trousdale county were robbed and burned. The robbers cracked the safe and secured between $250 and $300 in cash, besides a lot of stamps. The fire loss is estimated at $10,000. Officers are on the trail of the thieves.

Potter and Kirkham Flee.
New York, Jan. 22.—Asa P. Potter and Samuel E. Kirkham (Potter & Kirkham), stock brokers at 57 Broadway, have made an assignment without preference to Walter K. Griffin. Kirkham belongs to the Consolidated Exchange.

Utilizing the Sun's Heat.

The sun's heat has been harnessed at last. Dr. William Culver of Washington has invented the necessary apparatus, according to Pearson's Magazine. In the inventor's laboratory, or "sun power yard," as he prefers to call it, there are in all 1,600 small mirrors, arranged on frames of different sizes, the largest holding 810 mirrors and the smallest 28. Each mirror has been found capable, by actual thermometrical measurement, to reflect from 10 to 15 degrees of heat, according to the location of the sun, the angle of the mirror and the heat or warmth of the day. With all the mirrors in use, therefore, a total heat of some 24,000 degrees is generated.

In the ordinary way Dr. Culver never uses more than one or two of his mirror frames simultaneously; in fact, unless required to melt down a mountain of stone or to perform some gigantic operation of the kind, he would hardly have cause to do so. The sun rays are focused on a piece of highly burnished metal, shaped like the smooth inside of a washbasin, only much larger. A piece of wood, three feet in length and an inch across, drawn soaking from a barrel of water and thrust into the reflected rays dries in about a half second and in another half bursts into flame.

National Board of Trade Meeting.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The National Board of Trade is holding its annual session in this city. Part of its business will be to urge the passage of the Cullom bill and prepare for resuming work on the return of Senator Cullom to Washington. The passage of the bill, which increases the power of the interstate commerce commission, will be especially urged by the commission through one of its members—Ex-Gov. Joseph Fifer of Illinois.

Cuba Shivering with Cold.
Santiago de Cuba, Jan. 22.—The unprecedented cold weather still continues. The temperature, which has fallen to 60 degrees, is greatly aggravated by high wind which prevails. The natives are shivering in their thin clothes and have shut themselves up in their homes in a vain endeavor to keep warm. The hills forty miles west of Santiago are capped with snow.

King Oscar Again Rules.

Stockholm, Jan. 22.—At today's council of state King Oscar of Sweden and Norway resumed the reins of government, after his recent illness. The crown prince, Gustave, retiring from the regency which he had held while his father was incapacitated from attending to business.

Stove Works to Reopen.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 22.—The Joliet Stove works will start up after a six weeks' shut down. One hundred and fifty men will return to work. During the time the plant has been closed extensive improvements have been made.

Marine Engineers Meet.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the National Association of Marine Engineers was called to order here with a very large number of delegates in attendance. The convention will continue throughout the week, during which time the engineers will visit the shipyards and large iron and steel manufacturing plants in and near the city.

SENATE IS FOR HARLAN.

Confirms His Nomination for Attorney-General of Porto Rico.

MEMBERS IN SHARP DEBATE.

A Rather Exciting Controversy Between Senators Chandler and Hawley—Senate Committee on Finance Fixing Up the War-Revenue Reduction Bill.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—By a vote of 43 to 21, Senators McLaughlin and McEnery voting with the Republicans, the senate confirmed the nomination of James S. Harlan to be attorney-general of Porto Rico. During the secret session there was an exciting encounter between Senators Chandler and Hawley. Senator Pettigrew referred briefly to an article written by Senator Chandler years ago discussing incidents connected with the Hayes-Tilden contest. In that letter Mr. Chandler stated that a commission, of which Harlan and Hawley were members, had been sent to Louisiana by President Hayes to destroy the Packard state government. This having been accomplished, Mr. Chandler said the president then undertook to "recognize" the members of the commission, giving Gen. Harlan the appointment of an associate justice and offering Gen. Hawley the place of director of the Paris exposition, which the latter had declined. Mr. Chandler said, because of the inadequacy of the salary. Mr. Hawley interrupted in somewhat excited manner to denounce the statement as false, which he did in very emphatic and plain language. He became personal in his remarks concerning Mr. Chandler and showed deep agitation. Mr. Chandler in answering said that the statements made in his article were matters of history, and that he was surprised that any senator should question the accuracy of the statements at this late date.

Fixing Up the Revenue Bill.

The senate committee on finance has been engaged putting the finishing touches to the war-revenue reduction bill. There will be another meeting before the bill is reported. It is probable that the committee will agree to remove the entire tax from patent medicines, whether the formula is described on the labels or not, and there is a strong determination on the part of the committee and other senators to tax telegraph and express companies.

Will Prohibit Hazing.

"Speaking for myself, but with a knowledge of the work of the committee, I would say that a report will be submitted within ten days embodying recommendation for legislation absolutely prohibiting hazing."

This was Chairman Dick's reply to a question as to what would be the result of the work of his special committee to investigate Cadet Booz' death. The members of the committee have arrived in Washington. A meeting will be held at the capitol at which the additional testimony of two former students at West Point will be taken.

Say Pat Crowe Crossed Sea.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—When the steamer Michigan, which has returned from Liverpool, sailed from this port Dec. 22 it carried a stranger who gave the name of Robert Lambert. The police were notified that this man was Pat Crowe of Omaha. A cablegram was sent to Liverpool, but when the Michigan reached that port the officers found no one who answered Crowe's description. The officers and crew of the steamer have now been shown Crowe's photograph, and many of them are certain that Lambert was Crowe, who is wanted for the Cadahy kidnaping.

Discipline a College Right.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—Student Harry Kobitz, last year a sophomore in the law school of the Western Reserve university, was refused admission to the institution by the faculty at the beginning of the present school year, the ground being misconduct. The law student brought suit against his reluctant alma mater to compel her to allow him to complete his education, basing his argument on the ground that when he matriculated he made a contract that the school could not repudiate. In the circuit court the student was defeated.

THINK OF YOUR STOMACH

If people would think more of their stomachs there would be less sickness and suffering in the world. Through sheer ignorance and thoughtlessness, men and women overcrowd their stomachs and injure them with unwholesome food, thus imposing on them work which nature never intended them to do. In this manner the vast majority of people sooner or later become afflicted with some kind of stomach trouble, for it has many forms, including malaria, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea, inflammation of the stomach, etc. Liver and bowel complaints are also often due to nothing but deranged action of the stomach. It is because people eat food of unwholesome quantity or quality that their stomachs become disordered and fail to perform their duty of digesting and assimilating the food. For relieving and curing every form of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and for helping and strengthening these organs to perform their functions perfectly, nothing is equal to

KERR WILL TELL OF TRAGEDY.

Man Implicated in Bosscheter Murder to Give Story on His Trial.

New York, Jan. 22.—New light has been thrown upon the case of George J. Kerr, indicted as one of the four murderers of Jennie Bosscheter in Paterson, N. J. The reasons for giving Kerr a separate trial also have been made public. Judge Dixon, at the time he granted Kerr the privilege of being tried separately, said he would file reasons later, and he has now made them known. Judge Dixon says the object of this secrecy was to prevent facts from reaching the jurors in the trial of the other three men that might possibly unduly influence their minds.

It now appears that Kerr intends to tell all about the tragedy of the night of Oct. 18; that he will claim that he was not present at the time the deadly drug was administered to Jennie Bosscheter and that he not only did not take part in the attack, but, on the other hand, protested against it. Kerr expects to prove this by the confessions of Campbell and Death.

Prosecutor Emley will insist that Kerr had guilty knowledge of all that took place on that night, and he aided and abetted in the poisoning.
